Journalism.org

<http://www.journalism.org/> [Retrieved January 26, 2015]

The goal of the site is to help both the journalists who produce the news and the citizens who consume it develop a better understanding of what the press is delivering, how the media are changing, and what forces are shaping those changes. We have emphasized empirical research in the belief that quantifying what is occurring in the press, rather than merely offering criticism, is a better approach to understanding.

Philippine Journal of Investigative Journalism (PCIJ)

<http://pcij.org/> [Retrieved January 26, 2015]

The Philippine Center for Investigative Journalism (PCIJ) is an independent, nonprofit media agency that specializes in investigative reporting. It was founded in 1989 by nine Filipino journalists who realized, from their years on the beat and at the news desk, the need for newspapers and broadcast agencies to go beyond day-to-day reportage. The Center funds investigative projects for both the print and broadcast media. It puts out books on current issues and publishes i, an online investigative reporting magazine, on its official web site, www.pcij.org. The Center also publishes www.pcij.org/blog, a daily institutional news blog, and www.i-site.ph, a database and resource tool on Philippine politics and governance.
